

Crop development report – Tett nang

May 2026

Thanks to the dry weather, soil tillage and manual work were carried out on schedule and under favorable conditions.

Despite the dry and at times hot weather, the crops have developed very well. The currently cooler temperatures will have a positive impact on growth. However, substantial rainfall is now needed for further development.