

Crop development report– Hallertau

April 2021

The month of April was characterized by unusually low temperatures and occasional night frosts. This has delayed the growth of hops by a few weeks. In the first week of May most of the farms begin with the training of the hop shoots.

The entry to of the seasonal workers to Germany, that are now needed, took place in time and without bigger problems. So the spring work in the hop fields can be done in time. The supply of the farms with operating material is also safe.
